Dr. Buroker Receives $27,500 NEH Grant

Dr. Jill Buroker, chair of the Department of Philosophy, has been awarded a $27,500 Fellowship for College Teachers by the National Endowment for the Humanities. The grant will support her research in Cartesian thought, to be conducted in France during most of the next academic year.

Her proposal, "Perception and Judgement of Cartesian Thought," was an outgrowth of work done under an NEH summer stipend in 1983. The issues covered in her work and the approach taken occupy center stage in philosophy today, she explained. "The results of the study will be of interest to philosophers of 17th and 18th century notions of language, as well as current theorists in the philosophy of language and the problems of perception."

The fellowship, the maximum amount awarded under the program, will permit Dr. Buroker to spend most of the 1985-86 year at the Bibliotheque National and the Sorbonne in Paris working with original documents and leading French philosophers.

Dr. Buroker, associate professor of philosophy, received a Faculty Professional Development grant of release time last year to research the paper which became part of her NEH grant application. Prior to joining the Cal State faculty in 1981, she was a technical writer at Basic Four of Management Assistance, Inc., a systems analyst at McDonnell Douglas Corp. and an assistant professor of philosophy at UC Irvine. She was a Danforth Tutor in Humanities at the University of Chicago, where she earned her M.A. and Ph.D. in philosophy. Her B.A. is from DePauw University.

12 Students Selected For International Programs

The largest number of students in one year, 12, will study overseas next year in the CSU International Programs, Dr. Mireille Rydell, campus coordinator, announced.

Surviving the on-campus and system screening were six women and six men. Unusual in this group are two students who are taking their families overseas with them.

Three students, junior this year, are going to France. They are: Jan Bruggeman, Robert E. Collins, and Michael Terry. Headed for Spain are senior Margaret Castro and Kimberly J. Comer, a graduate student who will be accompanied by her six-year-old son.

Planning to study in Sweden are Shelly Bickel and John Cloud, Jr., both juniors. Cloud's wife, daughter, 4, and son, 3, will be making the trip also. David Callahan, a senior, and Laureen Hubachek, a senior, will be studying at one of the universities in the United Kingdom.

Daniel Cahill, a junior, will study art history in Italy. Margaret Boyd, a senior, is headed for Tübingen, Germany. Catherine Mele will pursue her interest in business and Spanish in Mexico. She is a junior this year.

Credit earned on the overseas campuses in this program is transferred back to the student's home campus as residence credit.

Alumni Honor Dr. Patterson, Four Distinguished Grads

Dr. Mary Patterson, professor of nursing who is retiring in June, was presented an honorary life membership in the Cal State Alumni Association at the awards banquet on campus Saturday evening.

She was recognized for "devoted time and effort" in support of the Association's goals and objectives particularly for her work as advisor to the Alumni Nursing Chapter since its inception in 1982.

Four educators and an optometrist received the distinguished alumni awards for the year. One honoree was chosen for each school.

Dr. Richard Fehn, assistant professor of biology at Cal State, was the award recipient from the School of Natural Sciences. He received his B.S. and M.S. in biology here and then returned, after earning his Ph.D. at the University of Arizona, to take up the teaching area of one of his mentors, the late Dr. Al Egge.

Dr. Vernon R. Stauble, a 1972 B.A. in business administration, is professor of marketing and business management at San Bernardino Valley College and also teaches at Cal State and for Emory-Riddle Aeronautical University at March and Norton AFB. He was the representative for the School of Business and Public Administration.

Chosen from the School of Humanities, as proof "there is life after a B.A. in Spanish," was Daniel Carrasco, director of special projects for the Colton Unified School District. He also earned his M.A. in elementary education here. Robin L. Valles, principal of Trapp Elementary School in Rialto, was the School of Education's honoree. She received her B.A. in child development and her M.A. in education, with an emphasis in school administration.

The optometrist, a specialist in low vision rehabilitation, is Dr. Bennett McAllister, who is in private practice in Victorville and on the staff of the Center for the Partially Sighted in Santa Monica. Dr. McAllister earned a B.A. in social sciences at Cal State, before receiving his optometry degree from UC Berkeley.

The Education Alumni Chapter presented its scholarships for 1985-86 to Robert Gordon and Bonnie Swain Salazar. The Alumni Association's scholarships for the coming year will be awarded to Susan Peters, an incoming freshman, and Gail Manning and Jacqueline Stern, continuing students.

1600 Writing Contest Entries Judged

Approximately 100 junior and senior high school students will receive recognition in the English Department's Creative Writing Contest at the awards ceremony at 4 p.m., May 15 in the Recital Hall.

Members of the English faculty read and made comments on nearly 1600 entries in two categories, short story and poetry. First and second place winners and honorable mentions were chosen in the junior division (grades 7 and 8) and the senior division (grades 9-12). Drs. Catherine Gannon and Susan Meisenhelder coordinated the contest, the third annual and largest to date.
